ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS CELEBRATIONS AND CUSTOMS

Advent is a special time given to us to get ready for Christmas. Different countries around the world have their unique celebrations and customs.

Simbang Gabi or Misa de Gallo

It is a Novena Masses celebrated in the Philippines at dawn starting on December 16 until Christmas Eve. Every year Filipino communities around the world gratefully celebrate this important tradition. It is considered a way to prepare for the coming of Jesus with fervor, joy and thanksgiving which are expressed in their faithfulness to attend the full Novena Masses. After each Mass, participants share the meal.

Midnight Mass

Why sensible people would go to church in the middle of the night? The Roman Catholics thought, Christ was born at midnight, and therefore they thought that they should celebrate his birth at his birth time.

Christmas tree

A custom of decorating Christmas trees was introduced to the United States sometime between 1710 and 1830 by German Immigrants. Most homes that celebrate Christmas have a tree in them. These trees are highly decorated with colored lights, tinsel, bulbs, and many other ornaments.

Poinsettia Plants

The legend goes in Mexico, where people were leaving their gifts for Jesus on the church altar. There was a poor little boy who was very upset that he did not have a gift to leave Jesus. Therefore, he sat outside that window where he prayed, and he prayed harder than he had ever prayed in his life, and after his prayer was done he got up and walked away. Later in that spot, where he prayed quickly grew a beautiful plant, which we now call the Poinsettia.

Christmas Presents

It is very important to keep Christ at the center of gift giving, and guard against getting swept up in the materialism and consumerism of our culture. Christmas is really about a Big Present that God gave the world - Jesus Christ who is our Lord and Savior.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

Last week, we looked at a form of nativity scene called a presipio, characterized by framing the crèche of Jesus with a vast array of personalities and a rich geographical context. The tradition was carried to the New World, and finds very rich expression in Latin America today. While in Europe the presepio was reserved mostly to the homes of wealthy nobles and great churches, in Latin America it was claimed by the poor and expressed the skills of native artisans. In Mexico, you can still find clay figures in every village market. In a way, the native people took the religion of Spanish rule and baptized it with their Indian culture by surrounding the crib of Jesus with local geography and people. In Brazil, where Christmas falls in summer, the figure of the baby Jesus is wrapped in gold and gems, and set on a hillside surrounded by flowers and animals of all kinds. Sometimes there is a double presepio, presenting both Nativity and Crucifixion.

In some places in Latin America, even non-religious people take care to have a presepio in the home, sometimes dedicating one whole room in the house or apartment to the scene. Some cities have markets where people from the countryside sell plants and figurines. In Cuzco, churches and families provide hot chocolate for the children of the poor who come down to help create the nativity scenes. In Paraguay, the baby Jesus grows—the small infant who arrives on Christmas Eve is replaced at New Year with a toddler Jesus who holds in one hand the globe and in the other a cross. Few Christmas traditions have the vitality and variety of presepios and crèches honoring the Nativity.

Please remember in your prayers during this Christmas Season the recently deceased in our parish families and all who mourn the loss of a loved one.

Q. What is the idea behind the adoration of the Blessed Sacrament? Is it taken from the Scripture text about the agony in the garden?

A. You are referring to a form of prayer which took its first inspiration from the words of Christ to the Apostles who fell asleep while He prayed during His agony in the garden of Gethsemane. He asked them "Could you not watch one hour with Me?" It is sentiment rather than theology which applies this text to the custom of praying in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament. In the first ten centuries of the Church's existence, Christians considering the Eucharist thought of it as a sacrifice. They had no extra devotions outwardly demonstrating their belief that Christ was really present in the consecrated bread used as sacrifice. But they always believed that the elements of consecrated bread and wine concealed the Real Presence of Christ. They brought Communion to the sick who could not get to Mass. Hermits who lived apart from society (and did not get to Mass very often) were allowed to keep a "supply" of the Eucharist so that they could at least receive Communion. Nuns who spent time in solitary retreat after their professions were allowed to keep the sacrament for the same purpose. Bishops used to send the Eucharist to one another in token of their union in charity and faith. In the early centuries in the Eastern Church, the Mass of the Precanonical, at which there was no new consecration, only the use of the Eucharist previously consecrated, was enacted everyday in Lent, not only on Good Friday as we have it.

After the tenth century, the Blessed Sacrament was usually reserved in a special "casket" or house. In some places it was suspended over the altar in a dove-shaped receptacle. But the devotion such as we have now of formal, outward adoration of the Real Presence became popular only in reaction to certain Protestant denominations which denied that Christ was really present except at Communion time.

PROPER UNDERTAKING Never undertake anything for which you wouldn't have the courage to ask the blessings of heaven.—Georg C. Lichtenberg
